

With origins as lathing contractors dating back to 1895, Donley's was established as a general construction firm in 1941. Originally specializing in concrete formwork construction, the firm has continuously diversified and consolidated its services, and now, more than 75 years later, Donley's is one of the region's foremost Construction Managers, Design/Builders, and Concrete Contractors with offices in Virginia, Ohio, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

The firm's experience includes a wide range of public and private sector projects, from higher education, healthcare, and office buildings to industrial, entertainment, and commercial construction. Donley's also specializes in the design and construction of parking decks, with more than 220 projects completed in the last 30 years, including new facilities, expansions, and renovations.

Donley's Mid-Atlantic office was established in Richmond, Virginia, in 2002. This office has largely focused on the construction of facilities on higher education campuses throughout the region, along with a heavy emphasis on parking decks for a wide range of clients. With Donley's origins as a concrete contractor, the firm recently expanded its self-performing concrete capabilities to the Mid-Atlantic.

A family-controlled business that adheres to the principles of integrity, quality, innovation, efficiency, and safety, Donley's offers its clients:

- Preconstruction specialists focused on cost, value management, and procurement
- A proven ability to minimize disruption to ongoing operations during construction
- Nationally recognized leadership in safety and site management
- State-of-the-art project reporting and cost management systems
- Sustainable construction practices that have yielded many LEED certified projects at the Platinum, Gold, and Silver levels
- A track record, commitment, and approach to consistently meet or exceed diversity goals on its projects