

Fall 2017 Has Been Very Busy for Diverse Supplier's Best Advocates

Montgomery County Procurement Forum

Md. Washington Minority Companies Association (MWMCA), minority business and diverse supplier's best advocates have been very busy this Fall 2017. We've attended, exhibited or produced some of the best outreaches in the DMV. Starting on October 5th with the Montgomery County Government's Office of Procurement at Silver Spring Civic Building. On October 6th we attended Barton Malow's outreach for the latest major project at Morgan State University. On October 10th we attended Whiting-Turner's quarterly, "Get Down to Business" gathering where they introduce as many as 20 different projects they are working on. On October 16th we attended Johns Hopkins University "21st Century Cities Initiatives on Baltimore City's Small Business and start up financing system. On October 17th we attended The Cordish Companies Live! Casino & Hotel "Topping Off" Ceremony. On October 18th we exhibited at Baltimore County Public Schools and Governments 9th Annual Meet the Primes. During the event we produced the much-anticipated matchmaking sessions. To close out the month on October 20th we attended Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority (MWAA) major outreach for the $500 million renovation that Turner Construction is performing on Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport. Clark Construction, on October 26th held its MBE outreach for the building of University of Maryland Medical System (UMMS) a $600M medical facility in the heart of Prince George's County. On November 1st we were in attendance for Greater Baltimore Committee (GBC) Annual Bridging the Gap Achievement Awards ceremony, honoring so many luminaries. Please join us as we close out 2017, by subscribing and reading our weekly e-newsletter that is distributed to over 22,000 business to business contacts and our website for the newest opportunities and events in 2018 that identify work for your companies.

It's our pleasure to serve!
